Lauder over with a grounder, which Lauder threw wild to McGann, Keister taking third. It was a clinch for Keister to score on Barry's clip to Gilbert. Douglass hit where Gilbert could not reach. Hulswitt following with a single in the same spot. Babb fielded Roth to second, retiring Hulswitt. Douglass was caught running home on a quick shrow by Warner to Matty. One run.

Third Inning.

ni Warner had not the speed to beat a slow one to Hulswitt. Matty was called out on strikes by Emsile. Wolverton made a fine running catch of Browne's foul hoist. No runs. Matty tried and failed to handle it. The next moment Lauder threw Gleason at second off Wolverton's grounder. No Six furlongs.

Fourth Inning.

Op to this time New York had neither a run nor a base hit, and Van continued the list by fanning. McGann hit past Wolverton, but Hulswitt backed him up bandsomely and nailed McGann by a head. Mertes was allowed to walk. A weird attempt to steal on Sam's part retired the Giants ingloriously. No runs. Esister stied a foul to Lauder. Warner's quick throw finished Barry at second. Gibert leaped on a hot one from Douglass. No runs.

Talbot J. Taylor & Co., Senior Member of Which Is Keene's Son-in-Law, and W. L. Stow & Co. Are Driven to the Wall—Announcement of the Crashes Creates Tremendous Excitement on Exchange.

BOTH FAILURES CAUSED BY BIG DROP IN VALUE OF SECURITIES.

Taylor Assisted Keene in the Formation of the Southern Pacific Pool to Prevent the Harriman Interests from Controlling the System, and Millions Were Lost in the Slump that Followed the Deal.

The failure of the firm of Talbot J. Taylor & Co., in which James R. Keene is interested, was announced on the Stock Exchange shortly before the close this afternoon. It followed the announcement of the failure of the banking firm of W. L. Stow & Co.

Both failures were caused by the remarkable decline in the value of securities which has kept Wall street in a state of terror for weeks.

Strangely enough the announcement of these failures was followed by a rally in the market, which had been showing sensational drops all day. At 2 o'clock the bottom dropped out, and it was considered inevitable that some firms would have to go to the wall. The announcement of other failures is looked for at the opening of the Exchange to-morrow.

Talbot J. Taylor is a son-in-law of Mr. Keene, and assisted him in the formation of the Southern Pacific pool to prevent the Harriman interests Lipton and E. D. Morgan Said from controlling the system. The pool exploded and this was one of the leading causes of the long continued slump in values, which has cut the price of many of the best industrial securities in half.

HELD BULK OF THE STOCK.

Taylor & Co. and Mr. Keene held the bulk of the stock in the pool and it cost them dearly. Mr. Taylor and his brother and partner, James B. lost, it is said, about $2,000,000.

Keene was at the Talbot Taylor offices all afternoon, but refused to be interviewed.

Since the failure of the attempt to organize a successful Southern Pacific pool, the Keene house has been in difficulties, and the operations of a powerful clique have been directed at it. Mr. Keene was unable to old champion, has been in communication with Sir Thomas Lipton, who has on shrewd manipulations. It was rumored in Wall street last Monday that always insisted that the old Shamrock Taylor & Co. could not last the week out because Mr. Keene has so diswas a better boat than the craft that posed of his fortune that it cannot be used in Wall street. Recently he settled $5,000,000 on his wife, $5,000,000 on his son, Foxhall, and $5,000,000

The failure was the most important announced in many months and designer, W. Fife, being ill. The old created intense excitement, but the very interests that caused it turned the market from the dumps to a sharp rally. Money was poured in to the mide that the Irish Baronet believes she support of the declining securities and the close showed an improvement Ninth Inning—Gleason threw Babb cut. There is a general feeling that the failure of the Taylor firm will satisfy the men who have been driving at Mr. Keene and that there will be a thoroughly sparred and in splendid trim. general rally after the excitement dies away. It is not believed that Mr. Keene suffered heavily, however, as he appears to have dropped out of the negotiations after the failure of the pool. Foxhall Keene, however, is a
